In the story, Veronica Vernon is a headstrong southern belle determined to marry for love...or, at least not marry the man her uncle chose for her. In her escape from marriage, Veronica runs north and befriends the Williams', a Yankee family originally from the South. Despite the contentious sparks between them, Veronica hatches a hare-brained scheme for Brad, the eldest son, to pose as her fiancé, thus preventing her uncle from forcing her into the arranged marriage.

As Brad and Veronica travel south to face her family, no one is more surprised than they are when a tangible attraction grows between them. When Uncle Vernon threatens Veronica with Brad's life, Veronica must decide: marry the man her uncle chose, or take a chance on her attraction to Brad, risking his life in the process?

This is a sweet romance appropriate for girls in their pre-teens as well as mature women. Belinda, when asked, admitted that a few men in their 20s also enjoyed Veronica's story, so there really is something in it for everyone.
